

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

An optical isolator is constructed such that an optical isolator element in which at least one flat Faraday rotator and at least two flat polarizers are bonded to each other into an integral unit by van der Waals forces or hydrogen-bonding forces acting between bonding surfaces of the Faraday rotator and the polarizers is accommodated in a tubular magnetic element.